'Pneumonia Causes, Effects and Control' Ad Club Topic Wed.

Dr. Stuart H. Bean gives interesting address on disease which formerly took 12,000 lives annually—Is now controlled by drugs and serums—Membership contest extended.

"Pneumonia Control" was the topic of a talk given to members of the Advertising Club of Addison at the meeting Wednesday noon by Dr. Stuart H. Bean.

President Milton H. Crane presided at the dinner which was served in the Baptist Church by the women of the church. There were 32 present. Mr. Crane announced that the team of Charles Salerno in the membership drive is ahead of the John Davis team by a score of 297 to 251. The contest is to be continued to February 15 and during the next week 15 points are to be given for new active memberships secured.

The club voted to give $5 to the Finnish Relief Fund in Addison. President Crane appointed Bligh Chaffield and Harry Mullen a committee to contact the men who trimmed Main street at Christmas time and invite them personally to a meeting and each to bring their wife or a friend.

The next meeting night is February 15 and this will be a ladies Night program in Addison High School with the seniors serving the supper. M. G. Hubbs, Dr. Bean and Glenn L. Sprague are preparing the program.

Dr. Matthew Whitmore was in charge of the program and presented Dr. Bean by saying there is much information and much misinformation relative to pneumonia control. Dr. Bean said the New York State and other medical associations are organizing a program of pneumonia control to explain to people what pneumonia is and what can be done for it.

Dr. Bean said in part, "Pneumonia is an acute inflammation of the lungs caused by bacteria. There are two kinds, lobar which can come in any of the two lobes of the left lung or three lobes of the right lung and bronchial pneumonia, which is scattered. The lobar pneumonia comes principally to children and middle aged persons while bronchial comes to infants and older persons. The treatment for each is the same and the seriousness of each is the same.

"The disease is caused from any one of 32 types of pneumococcus germs. Serum can neutralize the effects of the germs. To determine types of pneumonia, sputum samples are immediately sent to laboratories at Corning, Hornell or Bath, characterized as to type and serum administered immediately. This serum comes mostly from horses although there is rabbit serum. Type three has the greatest mortality rate and until three years Renken Dairy employees are continuing cutting ice from the Canisteo River and during the early days of this week were cutting ice from 16 to 20 inches and crystal clear. Some of the ice will remain in Addison to be stored in an auxiliary ice house and 250 cakes were taken to Osceola for the Renken plant to supplement their supply there until their refrigeration system is in operation.

Percy Smith, manager of the local station states that an additional supply will be stored on the north side of the ice house here, a side little touched by the sun and it is expected that with the extra large cakes, the supply there will last into late April or early May. Conditions Tuesday and Wednesday were ideal for cutting, cold and clear and the machine cutting the ice sang as it sawed its way through the ice.

Medical associations throughout the country are speaking on this subject and promoting a greater knowledge of the disease about which little is known to the general public. It is the hope of the medical authorities throughout the country that through greater knowledge the death rate for pneumonia will be cut as has the disastrous effects of other diseases formerly considered dangerous, but which are now controlled.

POLITICIANS SHOULD TAKE NOTICE

Thinking citizens of this state, Republicans especially, were virtually struck speechless by the announcement last week that majority party leaders had struck a bargain with the Governor for another staggering state budget. Yet, the surprising deal was not many hours old before voice returned and Republicans have not been slow to express their disgusted reactions. Many have not hesitated to say Republican state leaders have shamelessly sold the taxpayers down the river in their deal with Mr. Lehman — a deal which practically cancels most of the high sounding words about economy uttered so far in this campaign year of 1940.

This is not surprising. For the Governor has induced these Republican leaders to acquiesce to a budget almost as large as that of 1939 when a special session was called to end the stalemate between executive and legislature over the latter's fiscal cuts. Now, with the echo of their last years' oratory about economy still ringing in their ears, our Republican leaders blithely announce agreement with Mr. Lehman on a budget of over 400 million dollars. A budget which retains all the new taxes, and all the old taxes, and in addition contemplates a further cowardly assault upon the incomes of a selected group of citizens expected to be least vocal in challenging the im-post.

Let us pick into the skeleton of this budget and see what bones of contention the joint group failed to give honest examination or adjustment.

In the first place the cut in the state aid to education was completely restored. It is admitted even by the foes of educational appropriations that the legislature failed to directly help the tax situation by cutting state aid to education last year. For the most part the cut in state aid had to be made up by increased school taxes in the small part of the state. The necessities to pay the tax collectors were met locally in a majority of the communities throughout the state west of Hudson River. Some communities, however, were not too adversely affected for some districts were receiving so much public money they are said to go out of the way to devise means of spending it.

Now a situation like this presents a picture of gross waste, to say the least. It should be corrected. No community should be granted more aid for education than it actually needs. Had the legislature been governed by constructive thinking it would have made a study of school budgets this year to determine the communities actually hurt by the cut and the communities which were not adversely affected. In this way a truer picture of the actual education aid needs of communities could be obtained.

The cut in state aid last year was so drastic it injured many communities, but the fact remains that a lot of bunk exists in our education system which should be slashed out by a courageous legislature. Money is being spent in the name of education which is criminally wasted on all sorts of nonsense of no practical good to the rising generation, and the sooner the state legislators become conscious of that fact the sooner they will have the courage to face the extravagant demands of the pressure educational group!

The second major item which the joint committee failed to honestly face was that of relief expenditures. Business in our cities is reported considerably better than it was last winter, still there is no honest effort made by state leaders—Republicans or Democrats, to cut relief expense.
Certainly relief rolls are loaded in many communities with recipients of aid who could now get work in private employment. Failure of Republican leaders to recognize this fact brands many of their expressions about economy as hollow sounds.

The third ground for public disappointment in the new budget was the utter lack of effort to cut costs of state government. Further there is no moratorium in pay increases for state employees.
Certainly at a time like this when the common citizen is struggling to meet a tax burden which takes about one dollar out of five from his income, the least our leaders could do would be to halt increases in the pay of those who eat off state tax funds. Evidently state leaders are too fearful of these pressure groups to give the taxpayers even this break.

No wonder gloom has settled like a pall over the heads of citizens who hoped the era of wasteful spending might be nearing an end. Taxpayers who hoped to see an end of the waste which is leading us to national bankruptcy now have grave reason to doubt the sincerity of Republican office seekers who talk economy. Are we to be let down after the national election, as we are being let down now in Albany?

If ever taxpayers should become vocal it is now. They should raise such a storm of protest over this rank deal perpetrated by the Democratic Governor and Republican leaders that politicians will be roused to the fact the demand today is for REAL not imaginary economy.
They should serve notice now on every man who proposes to seek office next fall that loose fiscal policies must end. For unless the cost of government is cut drastically now we shall all suffer far graver consequences in the future than the curtailment of some of today's extravaganzas. Politicians of every stripe and creed should take notice.

CHRISTIAN SYMPATHY

The drive to obtain funds for the relief of distressed people in Finland is rapidly drawing to a close. Many in this community have gladly contributed to this cause and their contributions are gratefully acknowledged by the committee in charge. However, there are hundreds who have yet failed to answer to the appeal. They too, have heard the call, they too have realized the need, yet the call has gone unanswered, the appeal unheeded.

In some cases we wonder why this is.
Of course there are many in need in our own midst, and some among the number who have not contributed are prevented by financial distress in their own homes. That is unfortunate and it is a sound reason for contributing. One cannot deny bread from one's own family to feed the stranger one has not seen. Yet there are others who could spare a little gift, yet have not come forward with their coin. Perhaps they have a reason as reasonable in their own minds as that which prevents the ones without means to give.
Probably those able who have not given are not deterred by selfishness half so much as by lack of interest. They have not been stirred to the story of a little group of honest, frugal people fighting for their very homes as well as freedom.

For as the speaker said at the Finnish relief entertainment recently, "The Finns are not fighting for a little strip of territory, nor to fix a disputed boundary line—they are fighting for their very homes and right to worship God".

There are no half-way measures of peace left for the Finns. They had to stake all for their one, lone chance of defending their homes and loved ones. If they lose, their women and children will be the prey of men with less sensibilities and conscience than beasts. Our part is not to fight their battles nor to send them implements of war for defense. But we can help to feed and clothe their women and children while the men fight bravely at the front. For to feed the fatherless and clothe the forlorn is the finest way in which the American people can show their truly Christian character.

THE UNPALATABLE TRUTH

Late last year a commission of experts, headed by Samuel Crowther, prepared and published what is believed to be the first attempt to show the fiscal condition of any commonwealth by means of the balance sheet and income account method used by large corporations. Public and private assets and liabilities were included.

The state selected was New Hampshire, at the request of its governor and legislature. The facts produced by the balance sheet must have come as a shock to New Hampshire people. It showed that the creation of purchasing power through government spending was an absurdity; that unemployment is being generated by the very measures taken to cure it, and that taxation is reaching small incomes as well as large. Most startling of all, the audit indicated that the people of New Hampshire, as a whole, have no net savings because their thrift is being smothered by governmental debt. Though they saved individually in the year audited, they grow poorer collectively because of governmental and business losses.

It would be a fine thing for this country if the fiscal affairs of every state were subjected to dis-passionate, businesslike audits such as this. The chances are that most of the commonwealths would find, to their amazement, that they are worse off than New Hampshire. We have done so much talking about spending ourselves into prosperity that we have forgotten that uncontrolled government spending, with the inevitable mounting deficits, is a sure road to poverty.

The fact is that the people know next to nothing about the various government taxing authorities that tax them. Politicians are always wary of being accurate and business like when it comes to showing the voters just what is happening to their money and their property. And the people, for lack of knowledge, have blindly followed the economic medicine men—and at what a cost!

New Hampshire is to be congratulated on its survey. May it profit from it. And may the other 47 states, to say nothing of the Federal government, follow suit. The truth may be unpalatable, but it has to come out.

THINK THIS OVER

In the Butler, Pennsylvania, Eagle appeared the following statement by T. W. Phillips, Jr.
It carries more wallop than one usually finds in a volume on economic questions.

"If my chief purpose in life were to break down our political, industrial and social order, I would naturally take the surest and most effective means, and the means that might be least suspected—that is, through involving the government in extravagance for well-meaning and high-sounding objectives, which, of course, would result in high taxes, and in order to make these taxes most effective in bringing about a chaotic condition, I would concentrate the taxes on the employers—on the business men."

Rambler

With all the cold weather in this vicinity we have not had the snows which are so prevalent in other sections. And we can also get wood at a reasonable price, for in the south I understand dry wood is $15 per cord and hard to get at that price.

In the death of Mrs. Minnie King last week the Little Rambler loses his first friend, for it was she who took care of him when he came from the hospital and his mother was unable to give him all the attention that a youngster of two weeks requires. And on his behalf, I here pay tribute to her painstaking and thorough care which she bestowed upon him.

The name "Borrowed Timers" is intriguing. And the Rev. Mrs.
David Davis in Woodhull told us something of that organization. It is made up of people who have been ill, given up to die by physicians and who have lived beyond the three months allowed them to live. The group was first formed in Ellensburg, Washington in 1936 and is unique in the many American organizations. The group believes in faith and prayer and the originators are still alive, the given only three months to live in 1936. Mrs.
Davis is numbered among the members and has a unique souvenir of her membership.

The Lenten period of penance is coming upon us next Wednesday.
That is a season of penance and prayer and usually means the ab-staining from or giving up some one thing you like or like to do for self discipline. A return to prayer is also noted during this period and this year prayers throughout the world are being asked for world peace.

week and I cannot say that I thoroughly agree with all his points.
I do believe the state budget can be reduced. However, I also agree with him that local political units are demanding too much from the state in return and this must be secured from some place, hence your taxes are going up.

Dr. James Thomas of Clarkson Tech and head of the Chrysler Institute of Engineering has an idea on.

that by business men teaching in schools, school teachers working in business, soldiers working with civilians, civilians working in the war department, and many other such exchanges for a year, that there will be a better understanding among the various groups in this country. By the same exchange he believes that by our changing students with foreign universities and changing engineers, military men, educators and others with foreign countries, we will have a better understanding of them and they of us.

Going into Bath the other night saw the brilliantly illuminated sign at the approach of the village. The wording on them was, "Do your Christmas shopping in Bath". Now, there is what I call a forward looking village, advising people to do their Christmas shopping early.

There is a lot more to this police business than appears on the surface. I learned at a dinner Sheriff Ben Balam gave to police officials in Bath last Wednesday night.
There were sheriffs and sheriffs deputies there, and undersheriffs, railroad police, state police and BOI men, chiefs of police and police officers of cities and towns present.
They were there to meet and discuss common problems of police work and to meet each other so that when something happens, all police of Steuben and nearby counties will know each other. Sheriff Balam was highly praised for the idea, which has never been tried before.

And our own Sgt. Charlie Burnett came in for much laudatory praise from various law enforcement agencies present. And his superior officer went with the rest of the men in the room when Charlie was called upon to speak.

One story told at the dinner amused me and I'll try to pass it on. Some Americans were traveling in the Orient with considerable baggage. Arriving at one port, they wanted to take a trip to the interior but did not want to carry all their baggage. Their guide said, "Leave it right on the dock; there".
The Americans said they did not think it would be safe there for someone would take it, to which the Oriental replied, "Be not afraid, there is not a Christian within 300 miles of this place".

That's all.

Police Warn Against
Using 1939 Plates

Today, Thursday is the last day for cars to be seen on the streets with 1939 license plates. The deadline expired at midnight last night and police of the county will pick up any cars found without license plates.

The State Department of Motor Vehicles has been lenient in permitting passenger cars to be without 1940 license plates for the month of January. They are also interested in the plan of putting the license plate collection time over to April and if the demand is great enough, that will probably be done within a few years, rather than having the license fee due January 1, with a grace period of 30 days.

Police chiefs of the cities and towns of the county are cooperating with state police and Motor Vehicle Bureau officials and it is expected that any cars found on the street from today with 1939 plates will be picked up.

Motorists have been given ample opportunity to get their plates according to officials and the demand for them has been behind last year.
Some car owners are planning to put their cars in storage for the balance of the winter and hence will not secure license plates until April.

Chiefs of Police have been given instructions and have given them to their subordinates, to pick up the cars with old plates being driven on the streets.

Sports—

There is considerable stink in Missouri over the fact that six baseball players drawing an average of $8,000 yearly on a contract basis and paid only during baseball season are drawing $15 weekly unemployment insurance during the winter. Baseball officials and state officials are quite perturbed over the matter.

Baseball managers and players are having great games of contract blockering these days with managers mailing out contracts for the coming baseball season and players mailing them back unsigned. Many players are asking for more money.
I have not heard of one who is asking for a reduction based on last year's poor efforts on the part of some of them.

Honus Wagner, one of the all-time greats of baseball, will return to major league baseball for the 20th consecutive year this spring when he will be on the line as Pittsburgh Pirate coach. Incidentally he has played every position in big league baseball but catcher.
However, it was as a shortstop he made his record. Honus broke into baseball back in 1897.

WASHINGTON
NEWS

FROM CONGRESSMAN
W. STERLING COLE

William E. Borah

The entire nation, all sections and all classes, have been saddened by the death of that patriarch of our public life, Senator Borah. For nearly as many years as I am old he has marched across the stage of American politics representing the thought of the people of his state and of the nation. Much has been written concerning him that is not necessary for me to relate.

There are two phases of his life which have impressed me. His intellectual honesty and integrity constituted his most appealing quality and yet it was that same quality that kept him from the Presidency.
No follower of the crowd was he;
"political expediency" was not in his vocabulary. He voiced his thoughts and cast his votes as his judgment dictated, irrespective of consequences. For his independence of thought the people of Idaho rewarded him with six consecutive terms in the Senate, yet the leaders of his party would not accept him for President.

The other phase of his life which struck my attention particularly was the news item which I recently read to the effect that he had left as an inheritance to his widow but a few thousand dollars. For over three decades he served the nation with immeasurable effectiveness but, while his reward in public esteem and gratitude was untold, the accumulation of his life's savings was negligible. His case in this respect is the duplication of scores of others which I have known in my short space of service.

Farm Exports and Imports

Of interest to the rural sections of the country are the recent figures issued by the Department of Commerce showing that for the first ten months of 1939 in comparison with the corresponding period of 1938 this country exported 175 million dollars worth less of farm products but imported 102 million dollars more, leaving a trade balance against us of 277 million dollars.
The imports for '39 over those for '38 are: cheese, 5 million pounds; eggs, 85 thousand dozen; wheat 7 million bushels; apples 16 thousand bushels; wool, 128 million pounds.

Naval Expansion

At the beginning of this session the President recommended an expansion of the navy which would have cost 1,300 million dollars. My committee has held hearings for over three weeks and discovered that the navy already has sufficient authority for new construction to keep them busy for the next two years. Consequently, we have reduced the new construction authority from 400 thousand tons to 150 thousand at a cost of about 300 million. We all subscribe to the necessity for an adequate defense but we insist it must be kept within the bounds of actual needs and our ability to pay.

Private Party for Republicans

The Republican leaders of the Congress recently declined an invitation to attend the Jackson Day dinner of the Democrats. President Roosevelt then offered to give them a suite in the Mayflower Hotel where the dinner was being held, have the dinner served to them in private and a radio installed so they could listen to as much of his speech as they wished. Even then, the three Republicans "had other engagements".

A New Hatch Bill

Senator Hatch, author of the measure designed to curb pernicious political activity (whatever that is) has introduced another bill to broaden the scope of the present act by bringing within the application of the act, certain state employees and employees of the District of Columbia. State Highway Department employees will be the group particularly affected, should the bill become a law.

Aunt Sammy's Recipe

This weekly news letter is a new feature for me. It may be that I am telling you things that you already know. It may be that you don't even read it. To test the latter I'm going to send to each of you who might request it a recently published copy of Aunt Sammy's Radio Recipes which I understand have proven very popular with the ladies and tasty to the men.

The Knights are staying in the winning column in their basketball league. However, attendance at the games has not been as great as in past years. Some of the basketball fans have been queried as to why they do not attend and their opinion seems to be they want to see some of the old time opponents of Addison play such as Hornell, Bath, C. F. A., Elmira and like teams. And this seems to be true this year when there is no town team to play teams from the communities above mentioned.

Each star on the map above indicates the location of a principal plant generating electric power—seven major stations in all. Shaded portions show the area served by these and many other subordinate generating stations.

What difference does it make that you are one of 255,932 users of electricity in the 18,000 square miles served by this company? Just this:

Behind the switch in your home and business is an interconnection of electric lines, with many sources of power available to "carry on" under almost every condition—ample material and equipment that can be rushed from centralized points to any part of the system where it may be needed—and trained men familiar with this equipment, who can be sent at a moment's notice to grapple with any situation that may affect the even supply of service.

CHAPTER CHATTER

What can farmers do as a group to adjust themselves to what changes that may take place during the coming year.

We may alter the general economic outlook of the country. We usually increase all forms of business activities which in turn increase the demand for farm products. Also both belligerent and neutral nations may increase their direct buying of farm products from this country.

Such concentrated products as beans, wheat and wool which tend to ship easier, usually raise faster than bulky and perishable products such as milk, eggs, and apples.

However, everyone is skeptical of how intense and how long this war will last. The sudden flurry of business activities which started last September has some what subsided and the level of prices is still uncertain.

Over a period of years prices of all agricultural products tend to fluctuate around the general price level.

Anticipated cost of those things most farmers in this area must buy.

Grain: Grain supplies are somewhat below the large crops of last ten years, but are about 8% above pre-drought average. Grain will probably be a little higher this year but not much over last year unless there is considerable speculation in the grain market.

Hay: Hay production in this state was 22% below that of last year and 14% below previous 10 year average. Corn crops are about 11% above the 10 year average but both hay and corn are short in the same sections. The cost of transportation for hay from sections of plenty to sections such as this, cost considerable.

Less Farm Help

Farm wages in New York during 1939 were high as compared to both prices of farm products and pre-war wage rates. Farm help is expected to be less plentiful in 1940 than last year, but no serious shortage is anticipated. During the World War, wages changed more slowly than did prices of farm products, but farm labor was difficult to obtain at those wages. There may be a similar lag in wages if prices rise as a result of the present war.

Interest Rates Low

Long term interest rates to farmers in New York State in 1939 were as low as they have ever been, and these low rates still continue. Many new mortgages are now being written at 4 per cent. The desired long-time loan is one that is non-callable and provides for small, regular payments on the principal, with the option of making larger payments.

Other costs may rise slightly. Prices of farm machinery in 1939 were about $50 above pre-war prices, and may be somewhat higher in 1940 if labor and material costs advance, but no sharp advances in machinery prices are anticipated. Likewise, prices paid by farmers for building materials were about 50 per cent above pre-war prices, and may show some small increases during 1940.

In recent years prices of fertilizers have been well in line with prices of farm products. During the 1940 season, they are likely to be somewhat higher than they were in 1939, but no substantial rise is in prospect.

Supplies of clover and alfalfa seeds are somewhat smaller than in the fall of 1938, but are a little larger than usual. Timothy-seed production in 1939 was about normal. Prices of these seeds are likely to be somewhat higher in the spring of 1940 than they were a year earlier. The acreage to be seeded this spring in New York is larger than normal, but supplies of seeds are believed to be adequate to meet this demand at prices only slightly higher than a year ago.

Prices of Farms Low

Reflecting the low price level and the disparity between farm prices and costs caused by it, prices of farms in New York State, since 1932, have been the lowest in the past 30 years. Because farms are cheaper and because the price level is likely to rise during the next few years, this is a good time to buy a good farm for a person who is going to farm it. Also, interest rates are low. The prices of good farms probably will average high—past 30 years. Because farms are cheaper and because the price level they do at the present time.

Baseball Czar Kenesaw Mountain Landis threw a bombshell into baseball circles during the past week when he advocated abolition of farm chains in organized major and minor league baseball. He realizes the dynamite in it and gives the teams several years to make adjustments. The plan has not been formally given the team managements as yet.

Dr. C. E. Ladd, Dean of the New York State Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics, issues a special invitation to Steuben County families to attend Farm and Home Week at Ithaca, February 12 to 17.

More than 600 events are on the program, which has, just been printed and is available free to those who ask for it. Write to the College of Agriculture at Ithaca, on a penny postcard, for a copy.

Sectional 4-H Meeting Held in Addison Sat.

A large, enthusiastic group of 4-H boys and girls with their leaders attended a Steuben County sectional meeting at Addison Saturday afternoon. Eighteen visiting clubs were represented, coming from the south and central districts of Steuben County. Leon H. Taylor, Steuben County 4-H director was in charge of the meetings. Those attending were all officers and leaders of groups.

The group gathered in the social rooms of the Addison Methodist Church early in the afternoon where they were divided into groups. Frank Finnerty, instructor in agriculture in Addison High School, explained the duties of presiding officers in 4-H clubs to the presidents of the clubs. Mr. Taylor addressed the club secretaries on the duties of their office. Esther Docherty of Addison, showed the club cheer leaders how to lead their groups in cheering.

Two excursions were arranged. Robert Drake taking the club treasurers to the first National Bank where Ray S. Brown, president, and Miss Louise Harrison, cashier, showed the young people through the bank and explained to them the elements of banking. Douglas Hand took a group of the club news writers to the office of the Addison Advertiser. There they were given a fifteen minute talk on the fundamentals of news writing by Maurice E. Miller, publisher, and were shown the machines and operations used in setting type and printing a newspaper.

The group returned to the church after the excursions and the session was brought to a close with a model 4-H Club meeting put on by the Bradford Club under the leadership of Mrs. Elizabeth Cahoon. Mrs. Cahoon has been in 4-H work for nine years, having come to Bradford from Chenango where the movement has been active for a long time.

Clubs represented at the meeting were: Lindley, 2; Preshe, Cameron Mills, Campbell, 2; Bradford, 2; Spencer Hill, 2; Caton, Painted Post, R. D. 1, Orr Hill, Woodhull, 3; Elkland, R. D. 2 and Freeman. Approximately 75 club officers and leaders attended.

Mrs. Conderman Again Chairman of Home Bureau

At a recent meeting of the executive committee of the Steuben County Home Bureau, Mrs. Gordon Conderman of Howard was re-elected county chairman for 1940. Mrs. Conderman was first elected chairman in the summer of 1938 to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. H. I. Wood of Corning and was re-elected for the year 1939. Other officers for 1940 were also re-elected: Mrs. William Bond of Savona for her second year as vice chairman; Mrs. Arling Cobb of Greenwood for her second year as secretary.

Monthly routine business was transacted at the meeting by the committee assisted by Miss Orrilla Wright, assistant state leader of Home Economics Extension from Ithaca.

The date of the Annual Achievement Day and dinner for the Board of Supervisors was changed to Monday, May 20, to correspond with the May meeting of the Board. The committee in charge of plans for this affair are Mrs. Aaron Putnam of Wheeler, chairman of the dinner committee; and Mrs. William Bond of Savona, chairman of the afternoon program and exhibits. The committee discussed and decided upon procedure in preparation for program planning for another year. This will include project leaders working in the local units to get requests from members, a summary of three requests by the executive committee, and working out of the actual projects by leaders and college specialists later in the spring. Unit program planning will be carried on in a slightly different manner this year. Unit officers and leaders will attend three district conferences in June when program plans will be completed and unit schedules made up.

HALLETT ELECTED TREASURER

Alfred, Jan. 26—Robert Hallett of Addison was elected treasurer of the Farm Machinery Club early this week. The club is an organization of students in the New York State School of Agriculture here who are majoring in farm machinery.

Football is taken seriously in England, so much so that when a blizzard struck one game the players continued until a fullback had to be taken from the game with a frozen arm according to the Herald-Tribune.

Railroad Men Have Own Language Heard About Addison Streets

Many terms used in every day language came from railroad men — Frank Ginnane of Buffalo sends information relative to origin of many of these phrases and words.

Addison has long been a railroad center with railroad men coming and going through the years. And with the old B & S and later the Baltimore & Ohio and the Erie having crews in and out of here, there has developed a lingo which is often unintelligible to the layman, who hears the railroad men talking in the yards, station or restaurants where they get their coffee.

The writer has been interested in this "lingo" for some time and told Frank Ginnane about it on one of his visits here. Frank is a retired Erie operator now living in Buffalo. And recently he sent us some material which explained some of the terms used by railroad men which seem unintelligible to the layman.

Inasmuch as a great deal of revenue comes to Addison from railroad men, many retired railroad workers live here and many are interested in railroading, some of the terms used and their meaning to a railroad man are explained.

Alvah Barkalow, operator, would be known as a "lightning slinger" and the instrument he uses is a "bug". Rexford Dyer would be known as a "number grabber" and Herman Cornell would be referred to as a "paper weight" and if someone new went into that job he would be a "pin-head". Some of the engineers such as Llewellyn Robbins and Albert Root would be known as "eagle eye" "hog head" or "speed gager". And fireman Frank Root and others is a "diamond pusher" or a "tallow pot" or a "fire boy" and a new fireman would be known as a "student". The locomotives which they operate are mostly known as "hogs" or "mills" or "kettles" and are often referred to by their number. The switch engine is "the goat" and the huge engines are known as "sacred ox".

In the days when traffic was good and Addison had a full time yard master, he was known as the "switch hog" and his office was the "knowledge tower". Brakemen on the trains are known by various names, chief among them being "fielder", "car catcher", "shack", "ground hog" or "stinger".

The reason for the use of several terms in some instances is owing to changes in the terms in various parts of the country and on various railroad lines. And even in round-houses of the same line there are tendencies to use different terms for the same thing, often times terms being created on the spur of a moment to fit a situation.

Track laborers are referred to as "jerry" or "snipe" and Mel Murray, a section foreman would be called a "king snipe". "Boomers" are men who stay on a division only a short time and Superintendent Donnellon of the division is known as "The Old Man", a term often used in other lines of work for the superior officers. The master mechanic, who has the responsibility for keeping the equipment rolling under all conditions is often referred to as the "master maniac", and the roundhouse foreman is called the "madhouse".

Conductors on most trains are known as "Big O". The switchman, who bug the ground most of the time, are given a term nearly analogous in being called "snakes".

When you ride in a passenger coach next time remember that to a railroad man it may be just a "varnished box" and as you see freight cars on sidings or whizzing by they are only "side-door Pullmans" to the man who takes your ticket or does other work on the railroad. Steel cars are known as "whale bellies" and the caboose is called "the dog house" or the "crumb box" and sometimes is even known as "the buggy".

Both railroads serving Addison, Corning and vicinity do not have extra fare trains in this vicinity, but should you pay extra fare on any train, that train would be known as a "due train".

The roof of a car is known as the "deck" and the men who walk the tops of cars are "decking". The boards on top of freight cars are "running boards" or "toe boards".

A freight train is known as a "rattler" and those trains which go through here fast are "highballing" and the train is a "hot shot". An empty coach in a train is a "bull fighter" and when that locomotive left the track here several months ago it was "a hop toad". Switches are "gates" and those who use a trip pass have "monkey money", while those using that pass are "deadheads" and the same term is often applied to cars or an extra locomotive in a train.

The trainman's lantern is a "shiner" and "highball" means to go ahead and "jake" means all right. Switching trains is "shuffling them up" and when cars are cut out of a train you may hear "saw three", "cut three" or "hand me three".

One of the most familiar terms to the layman is the "hot box" which often delays trains. This is an overheated journal box and cooling that box is to "freeze a hub". "Anchoring a string of cars is to apply the brakes to them.

A trainman boasting is "blowing smoke" and when he gets ready to go home he is "pinning for him".

Show Big Feature at Annual Potato Meet

Scores of growers last fall selected the choicest potatoes of their crop, carefully put them away to exhibit at the winter show. Soon these samples will be taken out of storage and spread over the kitchen table to pick the entry which each exhibitor hopes will win the blue ribbon at the annual Steuben County Potato Show.

Judging, according to veteran Show Clerk Art Wager of Cohocton, is on the basis of uniformity, truthness to type and freedom from blemish. All tubers, nine are required should weigh about eight ounces. Each should be regular in shape; there should be no scars or scab. In short, each should be in so far as possible, a perfect potato.

Classes All Varieties
For many years only the standard varieties, White Rurals and Green Mountains were shown, but the 1940 Show has gone modern and includes the new types, Katahdin, Chipewa and similar sorts.

Two hundred dollars in prizes and ribbons will be awarded. For judge the potato committee has selected Professor Ora Smith of Cornell. A show of 200 exhibits is expected, compared to 169 of a year ago.

Invitations will be mailed soon to all certified seed potato growers of New York State to exhibit in a special class, and shippers of Central and Western New York will display their pack.

Test Cooking Qualities
Science has recently discovered tests to determine the cooking quality of potatoes and these processes are to be demonstrated. There will be exhibits of insects and diseases, and soil types peculiar to Steuben county.

A record attendance is predicted for the meeting which will be held in the Cohocton Union School February 23, 24, with a program crowded with talks on a dozen topics of current interest.
The Annual Steuben County Potato Growers' Convention and Show sponsored by the farm bureau is dedicated to the betterment of Steuben's major crop.

Baptist Leader to Speak in Addison

The members of the Baptist Church of Addison are to have the rare privilege of hearing Dr. Roy E. Williamson, the leader of the Baptist Churches of New York State on Wednesday evening, February 7. Dr. Williamson will bring to a close a five weeks' school of missions in the local Baptist Church.

Dr. Williamson officially is the executive secretary of New York State and is responsible for the promotion of all the fields of endeavor in which Baptists in this state are engaged. It is his task to assist the churches without pastors to find the man best suited for that particular task. When problems arise in the local churches which cannot be handled by the pastor or people Dr. Williamson is called in to advise and help the people reach the best decision possible. In his capacity he is the spiritual leader and adviser for the whole of New York State.

The meeting on February 7 will begin with a fellowship supper at 6:30 P. M. to which all the members of the church are urged to be present. Bring your own dishes and food, and join in the fine fellowship which always pervades these church family night dinners. Dr. Williams will begin speaking after the dinner and those who find it impossible to be there for the dinner are welcome to come at 7:30 for the program.

Dairymen Study Feeding And Feed Crop Production

Present day problems of the feeding of dairy cattle, and the production of feed crops is the theme of the conference to be held in the True Gym, Addison, next week Tuesday and Wednesday, February 6, 7, according to farm bureau officers.

Those to attend will receive the answers to such puzzling questions as: Are vitamins necessary in the dairy ration, can the butterfat test be raised thru feeding, what is good quality hay, and how much protein should be fed in the grain mixture?

Also to be considered are such topics as the growing of calves and young stock so as to develop a large capacity for roughage, and how to make up a grain mixture, the matter of grass silage and chopped hay and similar topics.

Hay Substitutes
Equally interesting is the discussion of feed crop production which will consider the revival of meadows and pastures blighted by last summer's drought, and emergency crops that can be produced for hay and pasture in 1940.

Because tens of thousands of acres of Steuben's meadows and pastures were severely damaged from lack of rain, the selection of substitute crops to produce summer and winter feed is a major problem.

Bradley Gormel will lead the dairy discussion and Ernest VanAlstine talks on feed crop production. Both speakers are staff members of the college of agriculture.

The meetings which begin at ten o'clock daily have as co-chairmen C. E. Rounds of Addison and Gerald Kent of Troupsburg. The public is invited.

When she reached aid it was found the lower part of her body was frozen. She was treated in Warsaw Hospital, where she is still a patient.

Supervisor Henry Sherwood and Town Superintendent of Highways William Hallett attended the meeting of county and state highway workers of Steuben County held in Bath recently. The meeting was called by County Superintendent William G. Kellogg. State highway engineers spoke and outlined new developments in highway work.

The introductory remarks concerned the duties and powers of state and county highway officials in spending county and state highway funds. Supervisors were told that while they were the head fiscal officers of the towns, they cannot pay out highway money without authorization from the town superintendent.

Landowners must build their own roads leading to state and county roads and this cannot be done with state or county funds. Highway ditches which may be crossed by the road have to be properly provided with culverts by the property owner.

When water is drained from highways and water damages adjacent property, the property owner and town superintendent or state highway official should try to compromise with the land owner and if an agreement cannot be reached commissioners should be appointed to arbitrate the matter. Property damaged by brush cutting or the creation or removal of snow fences is to be settled the same way.

It was also brought out that when a highway is obstructed or impassable, people using that highway have a right to pass over adjoining lands.

State May Set Up Game Hunting Ground In Steuben County

Steuben County may have a game refuge and hunting preserve if plans of the State Conservation Department mature. During the coming weeks, representatives of the State Department are to tour the county securing sentiment of farmers relative to the plan. The opinions of Farm Bureau members, Grangers and other farm groups and individuals will be sought. Under the plan, land to be set aside for the game preserve and hunting ground will be paid for up to 10 cents per acre by the state department.

This plan is in effect in several counties and is meeting the approval of farmers and of sportsmen.

The passing of Asa T. Smith has created a deep sense of lasting personal loss in all who were associated with him. But, providentially, Mr. Smith had made arrangements to have the Funeral Establishment of H. P. Smith and Son carried on under the management of Jeffrey Smith who has been closely associated with him in the Funeral Work for the past six years. It will be the aim of those who carry on to give the same kind thought and deep consideration to the people of this community as the firm of H. P. Grange Against Budget Increase Farmers already suffering under a too-heavy tax load resent the proposed New York State budget and will demand that the Legislature provide relief for them in the way of reduced expenditures and lower taxes, it was declared today by W. J. Rich of Salem, Master of the New York State Grange.

Mr. Rich's statement was made following publication of Governor Lehman's proposed budget, providing for a $5,000,000 increase of public spending over that of last year and coincided with the release of a letter addressed to worthy Masters of New York Pomona and subordinate granges. It was suggested in the letter that action be taken to protest against the budget by individual members and the units of the state branch.

"A crippled and tax burdened agriculture views with alarm the proposed state budget calling for increases in taxes and public spending," Mr. Rich's statement read.

"New York farmers already are staggering under a too-heavy tax load. Many have fallen by the wayside because they could not bear it."

"They have been forced to follow the most rigid rules of economy themselves. Now they are awakened to the fact that their State officials must be forced to apply economy in government if agriculture in this state is to survive."

"All farm and crop values have been dropping in recent years and all government costs and tax bills have been rising. A continuation of this situation should not and must not be tolerated by the farmers."

"They have suffered long and intensely and in silence. But the end of that era is at hand. They represent the proposed budget, reportedly agreed to by executive and legislative leaders, which will aggravate their condition."

They should and will inform the Legislature that relief must be provided for them in the way of reduced taxes, that the axe of economy must fall on waste and extravagance."

Milk Dealers Have Until March 1 to File New License Applications

Albany, Jan. 30—Milk dealers in New York State, numbering approximately 4,700, have until March 1 to file license applications for the new license year beginning April 1. Director Kenneth F. Fee of the State Division of Milk Control, said today.

All necessary blanks for filing the applications at the Albany office of the Division, have been mailed to milk dealers. Mr. Fee added, and responses already received are 10 per cent ahead of this time last year.

The current year saw 4,600 dealers licensed by the state. The difference of about 100 represents applications denied or still pending. Licenses now in effect will expire on March 31.

Fees range from $3 to $5,000, depending on the quantity of milk handled by each dealer. Producer-dealers are included in the license requirements unless they sell 10 quarts or less at their farms daily to customers who bring their own containers.

Mrs. Minnie King Buried Sunday

Death ended the long and painful suffering of Mrs. Minnie King, Steuben Street, last Wednesday night, January 24, 1940. She died in the Corning Hospital. Mrs. King has been ill for the past year and was just recuperating from her lengthy illness, when she fell at her home and injured a hip. Hospital treatment was required and she was removed to the Corning Hospital, where she had been confined twice during her illness. Last summer she was there for a major operation.

The body was taken to the Simmons Funeral Home in Westfield, where Mrs. King formerly lived, and Friday was brought to the home of her twin sister, Mrs. Mabel Colvin, Steuben street.

Mrs. King was born Minnie Green in November 1878 in Addison. She received her early education in the schools here and upon completion of her school work became clerk in the Nelson B. Payne department store and also in the S. M. LaGrange store.

Thirty years ago she became the bride of Raymond King and shortly after went to Westfield where he operated a farm. For 12 years they lived in Austin where Mr. King managed a Renken Dairy Plant. He died three years ago. Since that time Mrs. King has been living in Addison.

Mrs. King was active in the Westfield Baptist Church prior to her retirement to Addison and was also active in the Eastern Star Chapters in Coudersport and Westfield and served as an officer during her membership.

She has been a kind and generous neighbor and assisted many in need during her stay here, donating time and energy to their welfare.

In addition to the twin sister above mentioned she leaves another sister, Mrs. Lura Stone of Rochester and the following nieces and nephews; Mrs. Doris Colvin Bliss, Addison; Mrs. James Alexander of Sonoma; Mrs. Howard Ode and Mrs. Kenneth Plantz, Rochester; Duane Colvin, Rochester and Frank Van Keuran, Hornell.

Funeral services were Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Colvin. The Rev. Mondula Johns of the Addison Baptist Church officiated. Burial was in Westfield. Those attending from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn Ten Broeck, Woodhull Mr. and Mrs. David Wasson, Mrs. Minnie Hubbard, Mrs. Elvah Hotalen, Corning; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Houghtaling, Painted Post; Mr. and Mrs. James Alexander and children of Sonoma; Mrs. Lura Stone and Duane Colvin, Rochester; Mr. and Mrs. John King of Arkport; Mr. and Mrs. Charles King, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Nix, Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Fay, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Watkins, Mr. and Mrs. William Horton, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Caffo, Mr. James Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Clareman of Westfield, Pa.

Aaron Putnam

Is Honored

At the meeting of the Board of Master Farmer Judges in Albany January 16, Aaron Putnam, Bath was named as one of the 1939 Master Farmers.

Each year a group of outstanding farmers is honored at the Master Farmer Banquet in Willard Straight Hall, Ithaca, during Farmers Week, where medals are presented them by the Governor of the State. This practice dates back to 1928, and since that time 93 men have been named, exclusive of those selected this year. While financial success is one measure, it is by no means the most important. A man's record of community service, the educational opportunities he gives his children, and his record of integrity are considered in choosing him as a Master Farmer.
